DEATH BY DISCO HELD OVER THROUGH JULY!

Murder Mystery Dinner Theater Show Extended to July 26th

(LAHASKA, Pa.) February 29, 2008...The Peddler's Village Murder Mystery Dinner Theater show, Death by Disco, will be held over through July due to popular demand! Death by Disco will be extended through July 26, 2008, running every Friday and Saturday evening in the Peddler's Pub at the Cock 'n Bull Restaurant.

Audiences have been enjoying Death by Disco, produced by Without a Cue Productions, for its hilarious script and interactive audience participation. At the start of the show, guests are welcomed to The Land of Oz Discoteria and the World Championship King and Queen of Disco Dance Contest. The dance contest finalists, including audience volunteers, show off their disco moves, each of them hoping to be crowned the new monarch of the light fantastic. The DJ, "The Boogie Man," spins some killer tunes as the murder mystery plot unfolds. So, put on your polyester and your platform shoes because one of the contestants will "do the hustle" right into the chain gang as murder erupts in this '70's disco mystery!

Guests should arrive in the lobby of the Cock 'n Bull Restaurant by 7:15 p.m. to be escorted to the Pub. The first act of the show begins at 8 p.m.--dinner is served during intermission. Dessert and coffee is served during Act Two. The cost is $44.95 per person, which includes dinner, show, tax and gratuity. Cocktail service is available. Groups are welcome. Recommended for mature audiences, 17 years of age and younger admitted at parent's discretion. Reservations are required for the Murder Mystery Dinner Theater. For more information and reservations, please call 215-794-4051.
