DEATH BY DISCO!

Peddler's Village Presents New Murder Mystery Dinner Theater

(LAHASKA, Pa.) December 10, 2007...Peddler's Village announces the newest show in its Murder Mystery Dinner Theater program in the Peddler's Pub at the Cock 'n Bull Restaurant. The new show, "Death by Disco" will debut on January 4, 2008 and will run Friday and Saturday nights through April 26, 2008.

"Death by Disco", produced by Without a Cue Productions, promises an exciting evening of entertainment. Welcome to The Land of Oz Discoteria and the World Championship King and Queen of Disco Dance Contest! The dance contest finalists will be bumping to that disco beat, each of them hoping to be crowned the new monarch of the light fantastic. Our DJ, "The Boogie Man," is going to be spinning some killer tunes. So, put on your polyester and your platform shoes because one of our contestants will "do the hustle" right into the chain gang as murder erupts in this '70's disco mystery!

Guests should arrive in the lobby of the Cock 'n Bull Restaurant by 7:15 p.m. to be escorted to the Pub. The first act of the show begins at 8 p.m.--dinner is served during intermission. Dessert and coffee is served during Act Two. The cost is $44.95 per person, which includes dinner, show, tax and gratuity. Cocktail service is available. Groups are welcome. Recommended for mature audiences, 17 years of age and younger admitted at parent's discretion.

Reservations are required for the Murder Mystery Dinner Theater. For more information and reservations, please call 215-794-4051.
