Peddler's Village will glow this holiday season

Holiday festivities, including annual gingerbread display, will begin on November 18

Lahaska, PA — Peddler's Village, a countryside shopping, dining, lodging, and family entertainment destination in the heart of historic Bucks County, PA, will celebrate the holiday season this year with free displays and events, including a Village-wide display of a million colorful lights, the annual gingerbread competition and display, a Holly Jolly weekend festival, a holiday kickoff celebration with Mrs. Claus at Giggleberry Fair, and periodic appearances by Santa. Tickered holiday events will include a breakfast with Santa at Giggleberry Fair and a brunch with Santa at Cock 'n Bull Restaurant. The festivities begin officially this year on November 18, during the daytime opening of the Gingerbread Competition & Display and the evening Grand Illumination Celebration. Parking at Peddler's Village is free year-round.

"Our mission is to create a magical holiday experience for all of our guests," said Bob McGowan, chief operating officer of Peddler's Village. "Whether you come for holiday shopping in our 65 specialty shops and boutiques, or to enjoy one of our seven restaurants, or simply to stroll to take in the seasonal sights and sounds, you will feel the glow and joy of this very special time of the year."

Here's the lineup of holiday events taking place at Peddler's Village this year:
